You may not include any link to any consumer-product website in your user registration. In case you are the owner/CEO of such a company, and provide credentials for this, you may later include the link/reference as a signature.

If you register several different users from the same IP, expect these to be deleted. You may register a single user account only.

Due to many Spam-Bot registrations, the following rules apply:

When your account is approved, immediately write a description of yourself in the thread Forum Members
If you don't post this message, the account will be deleted.
If your first post is not on topic, or contain references to consumer products, the account is deleted.
If your account is deleted by mistake, please register again. This time do it right, and you may also e-mail the site owner/administrator in case there is a problem.

Due to the many spam-bots, we now only list users, on the user list, that have a minimum of 3 forum posts. This is not a restriction on your user account. You still need to be logged in to see the list of users.

The Administrator no longer moderate new user accounts. Instead we remove unused or bogus accounts after a few weeks.

If you wish to keep your user account, you must write an intelligible post in the tread Forum Members REQUIRED: Introduce Yourself. This must be your first post. All accounts with zero accepted posts are deleted after one month.

We accept and welcome new members :flower:

With our latest aggressive policy update, we have had several days where the auto-bots have failed to register a permanent account. Several unconfirmed accounts appear, but these are cleaned out by server maintenance. If you wish to register a REAL account (by a living human!), make sure that your account is quickly registered, and write a full and complete description of yourself in the member presentation.

Thank you, and welcome to this interesting site :d

We have installed a plug-in that prevent field "City" to be answered by "yes". This have blocked the auto-bots from registering for several days. Not a single bogus account !
